Screen slides are transitions between one entire screen to another and are common with UIs like setup wizards or slideshows. This topic shows you how to do screen slides with a ViewPager2 object. ViewPager2 objects can animate screen slides automatically. Here's an example of a screen slide that transitions from one screen of content to the next: If you want to jump ahead and see a full working example, view this sample app on GitHub. To use ViewPager2, you need to add some AndroidX dependencies to your project. Note: If your app already uses ViewPager, see Migrate ViewPager to ViewPager2. Create the views Create a layout file that you'll later use for the content of a fragment. You also need to define a string for the contents of the fragment. The following example contains a text view that displays some text:
